Summer in the Settlement City

New York City is a frenetic place – the only “slower” season for many is summer. But not for Henry Street. We pick up the pace in the heat. From summer camps to summer jobs, we take a closer look at the busy summer for our youth and employment programs.

On The Runway

Fashion shows and homeless shelters are words rarely found in the same sentence -- let alone the same place -- and especially when the runway models are residents of a homeless shelter. But that's exactly what happened recently at Henry Street.

The fashion show, and the reception that followed, both held at the Settlement's women's residence, was the culminating event of an initiative by Dana Squires, who was a UPS Community Intern (CIP) at the Settlement this summer. (The CIP program sends UPS managers to Henry Street each summer, where they are imbedded in our programs to help them understand urban issues, increasing awareness and sensitivity.)

Name a Seat and Support the Arts
at the Abrons

You don't have to be a performer to play a starring role at the Abrons Arts Center's historic Playhouse.

Purchase a nameplate on a seat in our historic Playhouse to create a meaningful tribute, memorial, or gift — a legacy for generations to come.

We're saving a seat for you!

Ruth Taube on WNYC &
The Cooking Channel

Henry Street's own Ruth Taube, Director of the Home Planning Workshop, was featured in the season opener of My Grandmother's Ravioli (with host Mo Rocca) on The Cooking Channel on July 29. The premiere episode, featuring footage of Ruth giving Mo a tour of Henry Street—with a special cameo by Executive Director David Garza!—can be seen online on
