The Big Screen on the Lower East Side

Henry Street Settlement began the first of a series of events at new neighborhood hot spot Metrograph with a screening of Charles Lane's Sidewalk Stories, an important film about homelessness in New York City. The event was followed by a Q&A with Lane, moderated by Henry Street Settlement's Executive Director David Garza. Members of the Settlement community attended the event including staff, clients, and Community Advisory Board members.

Henry Street will continue to host screenings of relevant films at Metrograph, which opened on Ludlow Street just this month. Metrograph is a new art house cinema that is "the ultimate place for movie enthusiasts" on the Lower East Side.
