Lower East Side Residents Voice Concerns at the Town Hall 2015

It was standing room only as nearly 300 people packed the gymnasium at 301 Henry Street at the 2015 Town Hall to share their concerns about jobs, gentrification, housing, education, public safety and more.

David Garza, Executive Director of Henry Street, kicked off the meeting, telling those gathered that the Settlement is listening to the individuals it serves (and those it doesn't serve). "Without understanding the community, we cannot respond to its needs," he said.

Henry Street After-School Lights Up for COMPASS

Cheers of "After-school ROCKS!" could be heard echoing off the walls of school auditoriums throughout the Lower East Side when hundreds of Henry Street after-school students joined Lights On After-School's annual celebration on October 22.

Lights On After-School is a nationwide rally to highlight the importance of after-school programs and services like those offered at Henry Street Settlement.
